

What Went Well

- Our team project went well overall, and one aspect of that was our efficient communication.
- We made a point of keeping each other updated on our development.
- We often met as a team to go over any problems or difficulties that might have arisen. As a result,
- We were able to foresee possible issues early on and take action to remedy them before they turned into significant obstacles.
- This made it possible for us to stay on schedule and deliver our finished product on time.

What can be improved

Action We Take To Improve

- To make sure that everyone is aware of their duties and responsibilities and is at ease with them,
- The team could review and discuss this strategy. In addition,
- We may arrange frequent team meetings to go over the status and identify any tasks that need to be finished.
- We could change deadlines or reassign tasks as needed to keep the project on schedule.
- By doing these things, we could increase the productivity and communication within our team and make sure that all important activities are finished quickly and efficiently.
