

Alex is a man in his thirtieth year of life. Since he wasn't feeling well, he decided to get checked out at the hospital, where physicians looked for symptoms of convulsions.

It was determined that a CT scan was necessary, therefore one was performed. Not a single doctor can be reached for comment on the publications. he can use the SARS Covid-19 Detection utilizing AI technology to enter the report and acquire the results.